• African Americans, on average: twice unemployment rate and infant mortality rate

• Barely half the proportion of people who attend four years or more of college

• College admissions-related programs particularly hard hit.

Despite Black gains in median family income and the number of students attending college during the past 25 years, the ratio of White-to-Black advantage has remained virtually unchanged with respect to several common standard-of-living indices (based on data from the U.S. Bureau of the Census, 1984, 1994, 2000).
• Recent coverage of exacerbation racial and ethnic tensions

• Some of the most recent examples at political rallies

• Political correctness blamed in lieu of discrimination
General Policy Recommendations

• Affirmative action programs

• Infrastructure development programs

• Cultural sensitivity programs

• Compensatory funds for poorer areas
General Complications

• Measuring social integration through equations is easily skewable

• City planning systems focus on majority concerns due to limited

• Issues cannot always be solved by removing exclusionary statuses of marginalized groups

• Programs can become financially unsustainable

• Perceived imposition of cultural uniformity

• Fierce backlash over social disintegrative policies

• Globalization creates economically based resentments
China Recommendations

• State mindset is problematic

• Hong Kong is working on this

• Hiring more ethnic minority citizens into the civil service

• Reconsidering the need for Chinese language requirements for certain jobs,

• Broaden language requirements for jobs that directly service the general populace
Japan Recommandations

• Community outreach and education against perpetuated stereotypes of minorities

• Continuing push for anti-discrimination laws

• Advances in international law
